Projects

Composable Commerce Accelerator
Reproducible success

In order to reduce the delivery risk in complex MACH based architectures and to support the early sales cycle a composable commerce accelerator was built. The platform had to fulfil all requirements of a highly available fashion retailer and support the full journey from product discovery up to payment and confirmation without taking any shortcut along the way. This way the reusability of cloud functions and integrations can be ensured while educating the workforce on the benefits of composable architectures.

UK challenger Bank
MarTech Migration Project

Following a significant acquisition a UK challenger bank needed guidance for their future marketing technology strategy. From a heterogenous data architecture (multiple decentralised databases) the needed a migration strategy towards a centralised data warehousing via complex ELT scripts. Furthermore the manual marketing processes were not fit for the rapidly growing user base. A composable multivendor approach was designed to support complex analytics requirements, rule based marketing automations and allow for a 360-degree view on their customers.
